DRIADE

LOU READ

Philippe Starck's anthropomorphic Lou Read armchair pays homage both to design great Carlo Mollino and 1950s Danish design. Consisting of taut leather stretched over a fibreglass skeleton, it is part-cowboy ranch, part-ski chalet, and very masculine.

CAPELLINI

CAPO

Sheltering the body the way a wide-brimmed hat offers respite from the heat, Capò is Doshi Levien's first collaboration with Cappellini. Despite the slender profile, the seat shell is firm and sturdy. We're particularly fond of the triangular armrests - handy for resting a book, iPhone, or cup of tea while catching up on episodes of Modern Family. The matching footstool also doubles up as a platform for your laptop.
